Re: Recommendation for CFCC Application

To whom it may concern,

I am providing this letter of recommendation as proof of Mr. Jennings' construction claims related experience. I am of the understanding that this letter is in support of his pursuit of a CFCC (Certified Forensic Claims Consultant) designation.

My relationship started with Mr. Jennings in 2002 when he was the project manager for RCI Construction Group on a large wastewater treatment plant in Honolulu, Hawaii. This project had challenges early on in its foundation construction and quickly elevated to a matter requiring legal representation. This matter ended up ballooning into a multi-million dollar dispute over a subsurface differing site condition. Mr. Jennings played a critical role in preparing technical documents, authoring various project correspondence, and participating in recommending final settlement to the Company's owner.

As owner of Jennings Northwest LLC, he also engaged our firm in a utility project dispute in 2013 in which his company was the general contractor. This project involved several matters which required cost impact calculations, notification and entitlement evaluation, and schedule analysis. He was responsible for preparing these documents used in mediation with the owner.

There are several other issues in which you consulted our firm on over the years. I found Mr. Jennings to be competent in the field of claims support and recommend that he be considered for this certification.

Should there be any questions regarding Mr. Jennings claims experience, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Very truly yours,

OLES MORRISON RINKER & BAKER LLP
